Dear Prof. Li,

As you are about to enter the summer break, I would like to invite you to visit Intel for an extended period from August 4 to 25, 2017, to work on the capstone project under the framework of "Intel Collaborative Research Institute for Mobile Networking and Computing" with our Intel team and discuss possible new research projects. A proposed agenda for the visit is outlined as follows:

August 4: Review the current status of the capstone project

August 7-18: Working sessions with Intel team on the capstone project

August 21-25: Detailed discussions on possible new research projects and action items

I understand that University of Science and Technology of China will cover all of your expenses while you are in the United States and your traveling expenses. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
